Capital Plans Reception for Roosevelt

President Faces Array of Problems

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—President Roosevelt returns triumphantly to Washington tomorrow, to a tremendous reception and to tremendous tasks.

Waiting for him at the end of a long journey from Union station to the White House is a hefty array of problems that will cram his schedule from now until his fourth term begins in January.

Another Roosevelt-Churchill conference on war and world security, vacancies in the administration, possible cabinet changes, demands for remodeling the Little Steel wage formula, whipping together annual and budget messages for Congress. And those weren't all.

For the time being, Washington itself wasn't interested in them. National capital hatched spurs of moment plans to turn out Roosevelt with bands, bunting and blarney. Vice President-Elect Harry Truman flew eastward from Missouri to join the procession.

Latest National Figures
For the record, still incomplete, show Roosevelt's popularity topping challengers Thomas Dewey and John W. Bricker by six votes to twelve and 432 electoral votes to 99.

Hold Senate Majority
Along with the Democratic win at top of the ticket went retention of the party's comfortable majority in the Senate, a firm grasp on the majority, and more Democratic governors. The few races still doubtful couldn't alter that picture.

1,300 American Heavy Bombers Attack Germans

Explosives Blast Nazi Front Lines

By ROBERT EUNSON
LONDON, Nov. 9 (AP)—More than 1,300 American heavy bombers poured 4,000 tons of explosives and thousands of fragmentation bombs onto German troops near Metz today in close support of Lt. George S. Patton's Third Army offensive.

More than 2,000 planes including escorts, patrols and others, joined in the operation an Eighth air force communiqué announced and four-ton bombers and nineteen fighters failed to return.

Bombers Pave Way
While Patton's tank riding veterans crouched on the icy west banks of the Moselle, wave after wave of Liberators and Flying Fortresses of Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle's Eighth air force roamed the skies ahead, their bombs paving the way for the ground troops.

The bomber fleet was covered by 500 long range Mustangs. Opposition from the air was lacking again. The Luftwaffe has not attacked the Eighth air force since the Germans lost 208 planes last week.

RAP Lancasters attacked targets in the Ruhr and two bombers were downed. Spitfires and Mustangs escorted the big British bombers all returned. RAF fighter pilots said their eyes were frozen and ice formed outside their cockpits.

Blast Enemy Troops
It was the second time since the famous July blitz at Saint Lo that Eighth air force bombers had handled the task of pin-pointing their bombs into the backs of enemy troops facing Yank infantrymen called for a big blow. The same bombardiers smashed a hole in the Siegfried line near Aachen about a month ago.

Bombardiers wrecked roads and bridges with 2,000-pounders, showering buildings and supply depots with incendiaries and ripping troop areas with thousands of hundred-pound anti-personnel bombs.

When the Liberators and Fortresses turned off their bomb runs and headed home the Mustangs buzzed inside Germany at deck level, strafing communications.

About half of forty-two fighter planes missing after yesterday's strike, said an air force spokesman. Today, nineteen pilots lost yesterday reported from fields in France where they had made forced landings.

First To Protest
The first small nation to make an official answer to American-British-Russian-Chinese proposal for a peacetime United Nations, Uruguay asserted it would be advantageous to conserve the old league with reforms to strengthen its military, political, and judicial power. If that is impossible, Uruguay said, then guarantees for small nations should be incorporated in any new organization to preserve the world's peace.

What to do about the league ended inconclusively Dec. 14, 1939, but small committees kept going for sometime after that. Russia, Germany, Japan and Italy had all withdrawn long before the war, however, and the United States never joined.

Absent from today's diplomatic conference were Argentina and San Salvador, whose present governments are not recognized by Washington.

Following the meeting of diplomats, Acting Secretary of State Stettinius said that it had been "a fruitful discussion."

"We are encouraged by the support that all the American republics are showing for the basic ideas embodied in the Dumbarton Oaks proposals," Stettinius said in a statement released by the State department.

He received assurances today that all the American republics are giving careful study to the proposals and are going to bring their comments to the group.

"Some of the heads of mission have already placed the views of their governments before the group."

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Radio Tokyo told the Japanese people today that re-election of President Roosevelt means "there can be no compromise peace negotiation in the Greater East Asia war."

"Our only path is to clearly recognize the beastly character of the American people and to renew our determination to crush America," Tokyo said.

The domestic broadcast for home-land consumption, recorded by Federal Communications Commission, expressed amazement at gains of the Democrats in Congress. It added "the election of Roosevelt who is the intimidator and the spearhead of the war, proves that Roosevelt's ambition for world domination is the representative principle of the American people."

"The beastly nature which the American people have for the continuation of the war has maintained Roosevelt."

Pollack Denies PAC Help Hurt Roosevelt Vote

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9 (AP)—James H. Pollack, Democratic leader, denied today William Curran's contention that support by the CIO's Political Action Committee hurt the Roosevelt vote in Maryland, saying the president received his largest majority in the Fourth, where the PAC was active.

Curran, city-wide Democratic leader, had denounced frequently during the campaign the objectives of the PAC.

Pollack said that "if the PAC was responsible for Roosevelt's getting a lighter vote in the city of Baltimore, why doesn't the same line of reasoning apply to the Fourth district, where the president received a majority of 16,200?"

"I think that the PAC deserves credit instead of blame for the interest manifested in the election. There was a campaign of education and enlightenment. They felt that President Roosevelt represented their ideas and convictions. They too wanted to see a prompt termination of the war and an era of lasting peace throughout the world."

Roosevelt's Return Will Be Broadcast

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—President Roosevelt's post-election return to Washington tomorrow will be broadcast by major networks, but it was not known definitely tonight whether the president would speak on the program.

The networks will go on the air at 9 a. m. eastern war time, with a description of Mr. Roosevelt's arrival from Hyde Park, N. Y. where he received the election returns.

Paris Girls Never Heard of Sinatra

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9 (AP)—Actor-crooner Bing Crosby, returning today after a European tour, said ruefully that the French populace didn't seem to know who he was.

But he brightened up when he added, "I asked some teen-age Paris girls if they knew Frank Sinatra and they said they never heard of him."

Progressives No Longer Factor In Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 9 (AP)—The Progressive party, once the brightest star in Wisconsin's political sky, neared a total eclipse today.

Founded ten years ago, the party that sent Robert M. La Follette to the United States Senate and twice elected his brother, Philip, governor of Wisconsin, polled only six per cent of the vote in Wisconsin's election Tuesday.

The Progressives salvaged only one major office — a congressional seat won by Merlin Hull, who had no major party opposition. To the legislature that it once controlled it sent only six assemblymen and five senators. It failed to elect a candidate to a state office.

Although Sen. La Follette and Glen D. Roberts, party chairman, declared determination to carry on a fight for Progressive principles and made no reference to possible disbandment of the party itself, it is known the high command has been under heavy pressure to go into some other party.

George Hampel, Jr., Milwaukee county leader, and other strong party men, are advocating return to the Republican organization with which the Progressives were identified until 1934. Hampel has called a meeting of his group to discuss the issue of joining the G.O.P.

During the recent campaign, other Progressive leaders, noting that important labor groups and liberals had gone into the Wisconsin Democratic party, urging a future union of Progressives with that movement.

Baltimore Delegate Asks Equal Pay For Men and Women

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9 (AP)—Leon A. Rubenstein, Democratic member of the Maryland House of Delegates, from the Fourth district of Baltimore, said today he would introduce a bill making mandatory equal pay for men and women in the same type of work.

Rubenstein said his bill would be a composite of similar laws in New York and Illinois and would carry a penalty subjecting employers not complying to a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $100 for each offense.

"It has been customary in the past for women to receive less pay for the same work," the Baltimore delegate continued. "Should this condition continue to exist or be accentuated in the postwar labor market, we will find an unhealthy condition of competition for work between men and women."

Churchill Seeks Early Conference With FDR, Stalin

By ALEX H. SINGLETON
LONDON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today "it is high time" that he, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin had another conference. He declared that "the prospects of such a meeting have been vastly improved by the results of the presidential election in the United States, for which we waited so breathlessly on Tuesday last."

A new tri-power conference "might easily bridge the sufferings of mankind and stop the fearful process of destruction which is now ravaging the earth," he said.

Speaks at Luncheon
The prime minister spoke at the annual luncheon for the lord mayor of London, this time for Sir Frank L. Alexander.

"Now we stand on the threshold of Germany," Churchill cautioned. "It will take the full exertions of the three great powers, every scrap they can give, to crush down the desperate resistance which we must expect from this military antagonist at last beaten back to his own lair."

The prime minister held out no hope of swift victory. He said instead that "no one can be blamed, provided he does not slacken his efforts for a moment, for hoping that victory may come to the Allies and peace may come to Europe in 1945."

Robot Bombs Hit Southern England

LONDON, Nov. 9 (AP)—A sharp flurry of robot bombs which kept Southern England antiaircraft and fighter defenses busy during the night and killed at least five persons stirred speculation today that the Nazis have established new launching sites in Northern Holland.

The German radio again declared that the "flying telegraph pole" long range rocket V-2, was being used against England.

"Speculation on where the launching sites of V-1 and V-2 are situated is fruitless," said a broadcast by Transocean, Nazi propaganda agency. "The sites are most skillfully camouflaged. It is impossible to find out where they are."

The robot bombs came over the channel from the northeast. Antiaircraft guns destroyed some in the air, fighter planes chased others, and at least one bomb fell into the sea.

Blast damage to houses was heavy over a wide area. Rescue work continued all night.

A Transocean broadcast implied that V-2 rockets might be directed against the United States.

"England and other far distant objectives are to be bombarded on an increased scale," the propaganda organization declared. "The technical development of modern long range warfare has entered a new phase."

President Roosevelt's margin was 2,989,009, with 45,305,579 votes registered. The president had 24,147,294. Dewey 21,158,285.

Uruguay First To Protest Plan For World Peace

By FLORA LEWIS
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—The first official criticism of the Dumbarton Oaks world security plan by a small nation came today from Uruguay, which proposed instead that the League of Nations be revitalized.

Uruguayan Ambassador Juan Carlos Blanco presented the proposal to the other American republics at a meeting of Latin diplomats with Acting Secretary of State Stettinius. The session was the third to be held on the general subject of Dumbarton Oaks' accomplishments.

What to do about the league ended inconclusively Dec. 14, 1939, but small committees kept going for sometime after that. Russia, Germany, Japan and Italy had all withdrawn long before the war, however, and the United States never joined.

Belgians Cheer Gen. Eisenhower

BRUSSELS, Nov. 9 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower received an ovation from the Belgian Parliament today when he told its members that the United Nations were fighting "an enemy who understands only one thing—force—and we intend to apply force to the utmost."

In turn, the Allied commander in chief was lauded by Premier Hubert Pierlot as the man who "launched the greatest battle of all times, and . . . won it."

Addressing both Houses of Parliament in the ornate chamber of deputies, General Eisenhower told the Belgians that "consistent with military operations, I pledge that you will get everything we can bring you. I only ask that you understand we are doing our best."

Except for what assistance they can be given by the Allies, the bulk of the Belgians face the prospect of a heartless and hungry winter.

Duisburg, at Juncture of Rivers, Is Inland Port for Nazi Industry

DUISBURG

AP Newsfeatures

At the juncture of the Rhine and Ruhr rivers, Duisburg is one of the largest inland ports of Europe and lies in the path of Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey's troops pushing into Germany from Holland. A canal connects the city with Ruhrort fifteen miles away to form the single port of Duisburg-Ruhrort.

In the Prussian province of Westphalia which forms a large portion of Northwestern Germany, Duisburg has been a main artery for the distribution of the province's heavy production of coal and iron. Some 20,000,000 tons of industrial shipping normally are handled in this port annually. Its surrounding region is dotted with blast furnaces and rolling mills as well as vast mines.

Britain-based bombers long have made the Duisburg-Ruhrort port a prime target because of its concentration of war industries and because this section of the Ruhr supplies the Reich with a great part of its coal. Also vital to the Nazi war machine is the power which the Ruhr develops. Occupation of this port would curb navigation on both of Germany's great water highways.

An old city, Duisburg attained the rank of an imperial free town in the Twelfth century. Its fine Fifteenth century Gothic Salvator-kirche stands out among the town's many churches. Known to the Romans as Castrum Deutonis, this water hub of industry also has become a big rail center. A population of over 274,000 has been well educated in technical schools and a noted school of machinery for placement in Duisburg's steel, chemical, textile, tobacco, sugar, soap, margarine, plate glass and other industries.

It's Romance, Not the War, Why Quads Arrive by Squads

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
WASHINGTON — More twins, triplets and quads are being born in the United States since the war began than before.

The Bureau of the Census figures are: multiple births in 1933—24,220, and in 1942 a rise to 29,421.

At first glance it looks like Mars is adding romance and mystery to war marriages. Investigation supports the romance, wipes out all the mystery, and gives Mars a bad score when it comes to producing multiples.

Rush to the Altar
The reason there were more multiple births in 1942 than in 1933 was because many more babies were born, because the United States birth rate went up. More girls got married; a rush to the altar, which it will be recalled, started with adoption of Selective Service before we entered combat.

Along with the rising birth rate there naturally were more twins and other multiples.
That is no special credit to Mars. What's to his discredit in this multiple baby business is that the percentage of multiples actually declined. In 1933, of all babies born in the United States, eleven and a fraction per cent per thousand were twins, triplets or quads. That percentage stayed at eleven until 1940.

Beginning with the latter year, the percentage dropped to 10.8, went down one decimal point the next year and again a similar decimal point in 1942, the last year of completed census figures on babies.

The medical reason for the percentage decline in proportion of multiples is not clear. But an explanation which comes from statistics of birth rates is entirely clear.

This is the explanation. First born are not as likely to come in pairs or multiples as are children born later to the same mother. The American increase in babies during this war is largely among new mothers, girls having their first babies.

Booming Birth Rate
In round numbers, the babies born in the United States in the last ten available years were 2,000,000 in 1933, a step-up to 2,100,000 in each of the following four years, then to 2,200,000 for two years, to 2,300,000 in 1940; 2,400,000 in 1941; 2,700,000 in 1942.

Triplets were 220 in 1933 and 277 in 1942.
Quads were five in each of these years. But in 1941, which in marriages rates as a war year, America had twelve sets of quads, which was twice as many as in the biggest previous year of the decade.

Unfettered Flow Of News Urged By Kent Cooper

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (P)—A positive program with adequate enforcement machinery to assure unfettered flow of news and information around the world is urged by Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, in an article in the current issue of Life magazine.

The article describes the former world news monopoly of the European news agencies, and the controlled press of the totalitarian countries, and asserts the aggressor countries could not have driven their peoples to war without systematic perversion of the news.

"A heavy duty rests upon the Allied peoples," Cooper concludes. "If they are not convinced that the adoption of free-news principles is their responsibility, then once again, the next war is their war."

Cooper cites the recent action of Congress in unanimously endorsing the idea of worldwide freedom of news and suggests that if the British Parliament followed the examples of Congress it would "help enormously" to promote the unhampered flow of free news.

He writes that the peace negotiations, "on the positive side," should guarantee "equal access to news wherever it occurs or wherever it is disclosed."

"On the negative side there should be two provisions: one that forbids the intentional transmission of propaganda from one country to another; and a second that forbids peacetime censorship in any form."

The word mongol comes from mong, a term meaning brave men, that was first used under the Chinese T'sang dynasty.

The island of Kythera, off the southern shore of Greece, is of volcanic origin.

NAVY TRAINERS SMOTHER FIRE IN SAILOR-MADE FOG

SMOKE-EATERS—Trainees at the Navy's Treasure Island fire-fighter school quell an oil blaze with a new fog nozzle.

By BONNIE WILEY
AP Newsfeature Writer
TREASURE ISLAND NAVY BASE, Calif.—For fifteen years C. E. McKeogh put out fires for the New York city fire department. Now a navy lieutenant, he deliberately starts seventy-five blazes a day to show navy trainees that fire isn't the frightening monster they've been led to believe.

At the training grounds here are three piles of concrete and brick—shore-bound replicas of sea-going ships, where long strides have been made in sea fire fighting and designing new equipment. Through navy experimenting new ideas have been worked out which will be turned over to civilian fire fighters as soon as the military secrecy can be lifted.

25,000 Gallons a Month
From 120 to 160 daily smoke-smudged trainees—officers and enlisted men—burn up 25,000 gallons of salvaged fuel oil a month, garnishing it with gasoline as a primer. The old-fashioned solid stream of water, sailors learn, is not nearly so effective for sea-going smoke chasing as some of the newer wrinkles, like water fog, foam preparations and carbon dioxide.

"First and most important, we have to teach men not to be afraid of fire," Lt. C. J. Friedel explains. "As soon as they discover that as long as they're back of a fog curtain they won't get hurt, the battle's half-won. Fire fighter schools like this have saved a lot of ships."

The Christmas Tree Fire
One of the most spectacular parts of the program is dubbed putting out the fire on the Christmas tree. The Christmas tree is a series of branched pipes from which burning gasoline spouts into a small steel room, blazing so intensely that spectators fifty feet away cover their faces against the searing heat.

Fighting behind a fog hose, the men first cool off the steel walls and then force the fire into a corner, smothering it with oxygen-robbing fog.

Another eyelash singeing lesson comes when the simulated, ship-size engine room is flooded with diesel oil, topped off with gasoline and touched off with a flaming torch.

With a mighty swoosh, the room becomes an inferno; leaping flames roar and billowing smoke blacks out the sky. Just when it looks as though all were lost, the navy trainees, brandishing three and one-half inch lines of high velocity fog, tame the fire in a matter of minutes.

Our Loud and Eloquent Political Campaigns

NOW that the tumult and shouting of our election campaign have died down and people have resumed the even tenor of their ways, some contemplative observers are asking whether the result would have been about the same if both sides had dispensed with the bulk of oratory, radio plugs, posters, partisan "literature" and the rest of the expensive flummery which has come to be regarded as necessary to a well-conducted campaign.

But, while admitting that the answer to the poser is not easy and that the result might be approximately the same, The New York Herald Tribune thinks it is a necessary and salutary part of the American scene.

"Certainly a large amount of money is wasted," it says. "The time of a great many persons, from ghost writers to doorbell ringers, is surely spent to no particularly useful purpose. The campaign managers seem to feel that they must go through certain motions and conform to tradition. They live in a holy terror that in the post-mortem examinations somebody will accuse them of having missed a trick here or a trick there, of having failed to spend money for this purpose or that, or for having been asleep when some situation came up that may have involved a few thousand votes."

"And yet, granting all this, we suspect that high-powered campaigns, with all their complex machinery, their fustian and foolishness, really are necessary if our form of government, and particularly the two-party system, is to be preserved in all its ancient vigor and glory. These campaigns, for all their inefficiency (a political headquarters is of necessity a place that would give an efficiency engineer a nightmare), make people talk. In some instances, according to reliable reports, they even make some people think about their responsibilities as citizens. They may not actually change many votes, for people usually make up their minds by reading newspapers and talking to their friends, but they do breathe life into our democratic processes."

"Therefore, we are all in favor of campaigns — loud campaigns, eloquent campaigns, campaigns full of fire and temper with roorbacks and canards. Of course too much money is spent, and maybe a way can be found to cut that down. However, we really have only one constructive suggestion, and that is a rather wistful one: Wouldn't it be a wonderful thing some time if a party, either party, would admit that its record was not wholly above reproach and that some of its issues were pretty flabby stuff? But there we go dreaming again. We may as well resign ourselves to letting the show proceed as usual. Things could be worse."

Yes, indeed, and without our customary recurrent election activities the most of us would feel pretty much lost; and doubtless much would be lost in the thrashing out of governmental needs and shortcomings which ultimately make for better government.

A Really Patriotic Armistice Day Effort

ARMISTICE DAY tomorrow, marking the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the month on which the First World War formally ended, is a patriotic affair and as such will be observed in this community, as shown by the schedule of appropriate events heretofore noted in the news columns. No more patriotic effort could be made in this observance than that which is to be undertaken by the Forty and Eight Volunte of the American Legion and that effort deserves hearty support from the people generally. This will be an advance sale of the Sixth War Loan drive.

While the Sixth War Loan drive will not open until November 20, arrangements have been made, because of this patriotic observance, to have all bond sales made tomorrow by this organization credited to the Sixth War Loan drive. The sales and secretarial work will be done by the Women's Auxiliary of the Legion and by the Eight and Forty Salons, which is the women's division of the Forty and Eight Volunte. Booths will be operated at the Fort Cumberland hotel, the McCrory store, Rosenbaum's department store and the Strand theater.

This drive fits in splendidly with the other patriotic observances, which will include the ceremony at 11 a. m. at City Hall plaza and the parade at 7:15 in the evening. It deserves hearty and enthusiastic support as an essential part of the war program, and the Legionnaires who are thus furthering it deserve praise for their patriotic efforts.

Truth Is Needed For the Peace

THE ONLY THING that is certain about the many questions that beset the world is that no single mind knows all the answers. This is not a matter for despair. It may be argued that it is essential to the creation of a permanent peace that all the nations affected send their best minds into discussions of ways and means.

Fixing responsibility for blunders in the political affairs of any country, even in this proud nation, is no single chore. But it is part of the game of self-government as it is practiced here. Facts are most annoyingly elusive. The truth has a way of concealing itself or assuming disguises that baffle the earnest seeker. All the way up from spotting the boy whose ball smashed the neighbor's window to marking the statesman whose errors or vanity have wrought mischief, the difficulty is one of degree.

The truth has been praised by philosophers and poets without strengthening it as a feature of human conduct. Even in familiar conversation one describing an incident he personally witnessed is prone to embellish the story to make it more effective.

Perhaps the best vehicle for misinformation is the rumor form, with the arresting prelude, "Have you heard so-and-so?" Coventry Patmore, a very good poet, thought the truth is mighty and will prevail when nobody cares whether it prevails or not.

The general subject is a fruitful one and invites unhurried meditation.

The German Flair For Destruction

SO DESPERATE are the prospects facing the Nazi war lords that they are already contemplating their course with their naval fleet when the war ends. The other time Germany surrendered its fleet to the Allies and, delivering it at Scapa Flow, scuttled the vessels.

A few days ago Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, top naval officer, announced the abandonment of Gdynia, Poland, and made a speech to the U-boat personnel there.

"The war has reached the crisis point," he said. "We must face unflinchingly the possibility that Germany this time will be defeated again. But this time there will be no Scapa Flow. Never again will Germany hand over her great warships to the enemy. Our ships will either go down fighting or be scuttled. Every officer here must understand this."

It is estimated that the Nazis still have hundreds of U-boats of the midget type in the Baltic. The Germans were destroyers in the First World War and they are destroyers still. How to turn their evil minds from destruction will be one of the big tasks of the peace.

Mrs. Menefee a Remarkable Woman

THE PASSING of Mrs. Elizabeth R. Menefee, distinguished Cumberland woman and judge of the juvenile court, removes from the local scene a remarkable personage and her death is the cause of sorrow among the people generally.

Mrs. Menefee was an unusually active woman in political, civic and social affairs. The listing of the numerous duties and responsibilities with which she was entrusted over a long period of years by the Democratic party shows that in it she was an ardent and loyal worker who contributed much to that cause not only in the county and state but also in the national field.

Equally so were her multitudinous endeavors in the various civic and welfare organizations of the community. She was a woman with a large and generous heart, who gave particular study to the needs and prospects of youth as was reflected by her court work in that respect. Some have wondered how she managed to do all the many things she did; but she was an unusual woman and in the departure of one such the community as well as the state suffers a grievous loss.

China Now Hard To Understand

RUSSIA may have an unseen hand in the United States-Chinese situation developed when Gen. Stilwell was recalled as the insistence of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. It is logical to assume as much because communistic Northern China figures in the political equation. That part of China borders on Manchuria and Siberia.

No one at this distance can understand China. The American in China has difficulty in keeping up with the intricate pattern of the intensely populated country with its peculiar oriental ideas and customs. Sometimes the conclusion is inescapable that the oriental doesn't want to be understood and that he deliberately poses to confuse the Caucasian mind.

Americans have a tendency to favor Chiang Kai-shek largely because of his talented wife, now in America. But if Chiang has thrown her out, as suggested by one newspaper, America might grow cool toward the generalissimo.

American soldiers in Holland have discovered that there is nothing to the story of the Dutch boy who prevented a flood by sticking a thumb in a hole in the dyke. Trust the Yanks to get to the bottom of things.

Goering's East Prussian estate has been found intact by the Russians. Covering an area 15 by 17 miles, it indicates the reichsmarshal has been doing quite well by himself.

An old timer is a fellow who can remember when the "mastery of the sea" was fought for by two peaceful yachts racing for the America's cup.

Plastic paper is now promised for the walls of the postwar house if it has walls.

Things To Talk About

By MARSHALL MASLIN
Does the "sensitive individual" get a better break from life than the duller fellow? Does the greater intensity of his pleasure make amends for the greater intensity of his pain?

Nearly every returned soldier who is interviewed by a newspaperman declares that he was terribly scared while at the front. . . I think some of them are fibbing. In that other war I knew quite a few men who seemed to have no fear at all. . . Discuss fear.

Does spanking do any good?

Can a man by taking good care of himself increase the span of his life?

What's the use of dieting?

If you didn't have to work, would you do it? Would you be happy?

Is joy higher or lower in the scale of human emotions than grief?

People frequently talk about the "terrible tempo of modern life". Was it, before the war, actually any faster for the average man than it was for his grandfather?

How would you like to live in Russia?

Can you catch a cold by sitting in a draft?

What's your idea of a "good" time?

Has the human race improved in 2,000 years? Is it more confused?

Does your garden grow?

Change of 750,000 Votes in Northern States Is Seen As an Election Swinger

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. — The American people decided that this was not the time for a change. That fact emerges above all others as the basic reason for the re-election of President Roosevelt.

There will be many other explanations offered, however, and many local factors will be suggested as having had a bearing, but, examining the results across the country, it is plain to see that the trend of Democratic vote-getting which was at the high point of sixty per cent of the total vote in 1936, and came down to 54.7 per cent in 1940 did not in its downward curve go below the fifty per cent mark this time in many states but stopped at a figure which was probably near fifty-three per cent.

The predictions that the election would be "close" were borne out on the popular vote side, but not in respect to electoral votes. The fact that fewer than 1,500,000 votes probably will be found, in the final tabulation, to have separated Mr. Dewey and Mr. Roosevelt in the total votes cast in all the northern states outside of the Solid South is an indication of how close the contest really was.

Out of the many millions of votes that were cast—some say it will be as high as 50,000,000—there had been a change of 750,000 or even less in the north, the electoral landside would have been the other way. This is not surprising merely to emphasize the difference between the two methods of calculating majorities.

Northern Vote Even
The voters in the northern states really divided rather evenly on the question of whether Mr. Roosevelt should or should not be retained in power. From the fact that a number of Republican senators and governors were elected in states that gave their electoral ballot to Mr. Roosevelt, it is evident that the tide of Republicanism was running strong but not strong enough to overcome the vote-getting talents of Mr. Roosevelt. This was proved in New Jersey and Massachusetts, both of which the president carried but both of which elected Republicans to the Senate.

The Roosevelt victory was not a surprise, because, ever since the campaign began, it has been apparent that the fear of "changing horses in midstream" would supersede party lines and give the president the benefit of the doubt no matter how vigorously Mr. Dewey might campaign on domestic issues.

It is too early to determine just what the mandate of the election was. Certainly it was a mandate that the war be carried on without change under the present command-in-chief. It was, in effect, a vote of confidence in the administration's conduct of the war.

League Question Open
Whether, on the other hand, it is a specific instruction as to the manner in which the new league of nations shall be set up, or just what America's role of participation therein should be, may well be open to argument. This is because the broad principles of the issue itself were lifted out of partisan politics by the two nominees after the Dumbarton Oaks conference.

About all that could be inferred from the result is that the Middle West is still anti-administration and perhaps would resent being called "isolationist." Here and there some members of Congress with "isolationist" records were defeated, but here and there some were re-elected, and there are a number on both the Democratic and Republican side of the aisle in the Senate who were not up for re-election.

It may be predicted at this time that the election of President Roosevelt by a narrow popular majority has by no means settled future questions of international policy. It will require painstaking effort, much patience, and all the conciliatory spirit that Mr. Roosevelt can muster to get a treaty ratified whereby the United States obligates itself to use its armed forces at the will of a president in the event of a threat to world peace.

Dewey May Try Again
As to Governor Dewey's prospects for another try in 1948, this will depend on what he does when he comes up for re-election as governor in 1946. If he demonstrates that he has carried New York state that year by a bigger majority than ever before, he may win the presidential nomination in 1948. He is young enough and if the managers of his campaign, who are in control of the Republican National Committee, devote themselves to building up the Republican party organizations in the next four years, Dewey may have another try at the presidency.

While the election campaign stirred up much emotion and feeling, it should leave no trace of bitterness. The seasoned men in politics know how to take defeats in their stride and they know even better that a poor sport can't hope to win the esteem of the average American voter in future contests. So the custom is for the defeated to congratulate the winner and quietly prepare for the next campaign. And the next one will be different for the soldiers will be back then and may demand that some of their leaders be given some of the high places of power.

Tax Reduction Is Seen As Probable When Nazis Fall

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Nov. 9. — Notwithstanding the results of Tuesday, I now make some predictions as to what will happen at Washington during the next four years. These forecasts assume the Republicans and conservative Democrats will combine to control Congress.

Taxes will materially be reduced. A reduction in excess profits taxes will come shortly after the collapse of Germany. Most "nuisance" taxes will be eliminated. Corporation taxes will later be put back nearly to pre-war figures. Personal income taxes should be reduced, but these will be the last to be lowered.

There will be no attempt to balance the budget. This is something to aim for, but it will be done slowly. Too radical cuts could cause deflation which, at this time, would be worse than inflation. The United States will, however, diligently work for a better financial setup for which we all should be thankful.

Coming Foreign Policies
Great Britain, Russia and the United States will combine and hold the peace so long as they remain friends. (China may or may not be admitted to the inner councils.)

How long these three great nations will remain friends, is anybody's guess. Other nations will be admitted to some sort of a world organization, but they will not have much to say.

Congress will pass legislation so that our navy and air force can act in emergencies—without the formal declaration of war. But this is a feeble step toward permanent peace. This can be secured only as all nations are willing to give up certain rights as to tariffs, immigration restrictions, natural resource monopolies, etc. I see no sign that the incoming administration at Washington will do this.

Aid to Farmers
Both farmers and union labor have had their honeymoon. Both will get less consideration during the next four years. We may, therefore, expect lower farm prices and only a few—if any—wage raises.

The hourly rate for wages may not be cut; but "overtime" will be out the window. We will go back to the forty-hour week. I strongly advise both farmers and wage workers to begin immediately to "save up money for a rainy day." It surely is coming. Moreover, this would still be true if the election had gone the other way.

Free Enterprise Test
Both candidates at heart believed in "free enterprise" so long as it will keep people employed. When, however, it does not prevent unemployment the voters surely will demand that something be done. This "something" will be quick remedies contrary to the spirit of free enterprise.

Certainly, much will be done for the returning soldiers, sailors and airmen. Some of this aid will be uneconomic and wasteful; but Washington will be driven to it. Such action will help along the inevitable inflation and some day cause us a lot of trouble. This, however, should not come until around 1950.

Conditions Ripe
In short, conditions make presidents; rather than do presidents make conditions. The masses of the entire world are on the march. Neither Roosevelt nor Dewey nor an undecided election can stop them. It is a mistake to try to block them as did Avery of Montgomery-Ward; it is a mistake to cheer them as have many politicians during the past two months. The wise man will attend to his own business, keep out of debt, educate his children to be useful and wait for these masses to learn their lesson through experience.

As to the effect of the elections on the markets, I expect no more changes than have already occurred. I am bearish on municipals and other high grade bonds; but am still bullish on most well-selected stocks. I do, however, not like the rails, aircrafts or shipping stocks for the next four years.

Sharp Changes In Party Affairs Are Seen Likely

By PAUL MALLON

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. — Sharp changes in inner political management of this nation are likely to evolve from the election results.

Gov. Dewey naturally will go back to Albany for the two more years of his term and there will wield whatever leadership he chooses to assume over the tremendous number of people who voted for him. But Gov. Bricker chose to relinquish his Ohio job, and the return were not fully tabulated before a movement was started in the party to get him to go on to Washington to take over the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee.

Bricker has always been popular with the party and the influence he wielded successfully in the election, in Ohio and less successfully in the Far Western states, makes the idea of his assuming the full-time job of party organization management rather obvious, especially as Chairman Brownell made personal sacrifices to take the job during the campaign (he was doubtful about it until pressed by Mr. Dewey) and has intended to retire.

Magical Name
The Republicans were not disorganized by the result which caused only deflection of Senator Ball. Actually the tabulation of votes induced most of the party leaders to predict an easy national victory.

When, if ever, the vote-magic of Mr. Roosevelt is eliminated from the picture, as the popularity of Democrats drops, sharply after his name is passed.

On the Democratic side, the victory healed no wounds, put no bandages on any and left some enigmas. Obviously there is going to be an immediate start of a movement to control the party for 1948, on the ground that "surely" Mr. Roosevelt will not run again (the word "surely" being used by Democratic supporters of the president currently). My guess is he may make some effort soon to control that result but how long he can hold together such uncompromisable elements as the South and the Wallace-Hillman group will depend upon his ingenuity.

Retaliation against Senator Byrd for failing to declare for Roosevelt may be attempted by the northern element (I mean Senator Guffey in particular) but the astonishing size of the anti-Roosevelt vote in Virginia puts Byrd beyond anything more than some trouble. The Texas Senator O'Daniel who led the anti-Roosevelt forces at home may not fare so well.

Truman Prestige Lost
Vice President Truman is CIO but less ideologically bent than Wallace and in a more machine-like sort of political way. He is a good-natured and an exceptionally modest person (he actually still blushes.) As senator he had a habit of turning things off in a half joking manner, a trait which got him into much trouble in the big-time campaign circuit, particularly in Massachusetts. He lost prestige within the party during the campaign, although he performed well enough, or at least successfully, his main job of stressing the fights against "isolationists." He was nervous in the East because of the Ku Klux Klan charges, and it was the Democratic high command which required him to say again, again and again in his Madison Square Garden speech the phrase "regardless of creed or color." His chief brain trust was Hugh Fulton, counsel for the Truman investigation committee, who wrote his speeches as a good lawyer rather than an adept politician, which he is not.

Wallace and Lasche Eyed
Wallace seems to want to carry on his ideological leadership in or out of the government and may become a more potent force than Hillman of the Hillman group, acceptable, that is to all those elements.

But Democratic eyes are also on Frank Lasche, the Cleveland mayor who was called to the White House twice before he entered the Ohio gubernatorial campaign to run ahead of the ticket. While he denied he was the Washington candidate, there seems to have been some connection there, which may bring forth future Democratic fruit.

BERLIN, OFF THE BEATEN TRACK IN WAR, MAY SEE ITS FIRST CONQUERORS SINCE NAPOLEON

LAST MILITARY TOURIST—Napoleon at the head of his victorious troops entering Berlin in 1806 in a painting by Regnault.

By JEAN MEEGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Berlin residents, raised on German bands, parades, and uniforms, may see the enemy, also in uniform, for the first time since Napoleon took over the city in 1806.

Either because of its inaccessibility or because of German military strategy the city usually has been passed up as a war zone (the Allies didn't go near there in the last war) but since the day Hitler arrived in Poland in the first act of this war, everybody at home and abroad was bound to get to Berlin. The other two times it was a military objective were in the Eighteenth century. The Austrians plundered and occupied the city in 1757 (when it was merely a small town not yet the capital) and the Russians followed three years later.

Never a Tourist Mecca
Even in peace Berlin was not a must on travelers' itineraries except as a depot of departure for some other spot in Eastern Europe. Curiously Americans, even when they had German blood, headed for Paris more often than Berlin.

Hitler always thought more of Munich, where he got his political start, than he did of Berlin but he kept his office with its modernistic trappings on the Wilhelmstrasse, Berlin's street of government buildings.

Architecturally the city has never been much. At a time of religious revolution in France, some French Protestant refugees went to Berlin and inspired the bad examples of Louis XIV style. Back streets are old, narrow, and crooked but the Avenue Emperor William I built when he made the city his capital in 1861 are wide, good, and lined with trees.

Some wit once said that a great deal of the anti-British feeling in Berlin was on account of the storms from the English channel that swept the city regularly. Maybe the rain helps, but the city is notably clean even in local politics.

Travelers remember the German capital for its beer, babies, sausages, and cigars. The food was always heavy, even at luncheon which was served at 2 p. m. Everything—a sturdy soup, hearty meat, potatoes, a second vegetables, and dessert, were all dished up simultaneously from ponderous silver service. At dinner parties, even in private homes, the menus were written out.

Judged by European standards where cities have existed since before Christ, Berlin is not old. The first mention of it is in the Thirteenth century. Actually it was a tiny town, which was merged in the Fourteenth century with another tiny town, Kolln on the opposite bank of the Spree river.

Originally a Slavic Town
The tribe that founded the two towns was Slav and Slavic was spoken right up to the time of Frederick the Great or about the same period as our Revolution. German culture was imported from the older Rhineland, Munich, and South Germany. Bismarck gave the city more prestige than it had ever had before when he staged the Treaty of Berlin there in 1871, winding up the Franco-Prussian War. There seemed to be a conscious effort to be modern and up-to-date after that. Some Americans complained of the noise in Berlin. Waltzes that we're sentimental about blared out of loud speakers; the streets reverberated with marching, cat horns, the clatter of housecleaning. People who are squeamish about munching a candy bar in the picture show would swoon at the sight of the first citizens of Berlin attending concerts with picnic lunch-

Junior Extension Club Elects New Officers for 1945

The Junior Extension Club elected officers for 1945; authorized the honor roll committee to go ahead with plans; and formulated plans for the Christmas party, at a meeting Wednesday evening in the court house, with Harry Morgan presiding. Marian Valentine was elected president; Royce Johnson, vice president; Ada Ford, secretary; and Imogene Ryan, treasurer. December 27 was chosen as the date for the Christmas party, at which time the officers will be installed. James Morgan, Imogene Ryan and Royce Johnson will comprise the committee of arrangements.

The 4-H honor roll will contain approximately 100 names of former members now in service. It was decided that one of the Boys 4-H Club will make the honor roll, which will be hung in the county agent's office. It was also suggested each club will be responsible for placing their members names on the roll.

Workers, to procure the names in the various communities, were appointed and include Dale Mann for Piney Plains; Mary Morgan and Florence Thompson, Flintstone; Nellie Thompson, Oldtown; Delbert Valentine, North Branch; Virginia Ayers, Barton; Royce Johnson, Pleasant Grove; Ada Ford, Cumberland; Joan Hyde and Rose Mary Cravenstein, Bowling Green; Edna McFarlane, Lonaconing; and J. C. Ward, LaVale, all will be under the direction of Miss Ringler.

An article on "The Heritage of Young America," by T. A. Erickson, was read by Florence Thompson. Miss Maude A. Bean gave a summary of her White House conference. She said the program was introduced to urge utilization of the abilities of some of the best teachers, rather than have them changing schools so often, in this way supporting the rural youth.

Chairmen reports were given Miss Ringler for the program planning committee; James McHenry, 4-H safety driving; Charles Llewellyn, honor roll; Wilma Ryan, war bonds and stamps; and Helen Lechiter, weekend-camp. Achievement reports were also filed.

The next meeting will be December 6 when "What Program Shall We Have for 1945," will be discussed. The topic of the meeting will be "Freedom of Religion," and will be presented by guest speakers.

"Rec" Club Will Hold Patriotic Dance

The "Rec" club will hold a patriotic dance this evening in the Central YMCA gymnasium from 9 o'clock to midnight. Jimmy Andrews's orchestra will play.

Streamers and bunting in patriotic colors will be used in decorating the gym. The dance will be preceded by games, bowling, movies and ping pong, starting at 8 o'clock. Attendance at last Friday's dance was 412.

Next week there will be special decorations in honor of a visiting guest, Edmund Tomb, executive secretary of the Central Atlantic Area Council of the YMCA.

"Forced Furlough"

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Unique punishment for failure to salute an officer was given a McClellan field soldier, who was ordered to take the next bus to town and stay until his pass was up. The usual punishment, restricting a man to the post, wouldn't have worked because the soldier had only gone to town voluntarily once in nearly two years at the field.

"Sight for Sore Eyes" Will Win The Soldier, Beauty Editor Says

TIDY TRAVELING . . . Easier with a compact cosmetic kit.

By BETTY CLARKE
Associated Press Beauty Editor

A hot biscuit, lamb stew or juicy steak isn't the way to a man's heart this season if he's in the service. Right now his stomach belongs to the army.

You've little opportunity to feed him. So concentrate on being that "sight for sore eyes" when he sees you. That's one way of winning him.

He's probably glamorized you mentally—you're prettier than the pinup girl on his buddy's closet, any movie actress he's seen or even Mona Lisa.

So when he invites you to visit his outfit, remember he'll want to show you off. He's probably talked about you for months and no matter how wonderful you are, it will be difficult to measure up to the picture he's painted.

His big moment will be when he meets you at the train or the army reception room. Don't let him down. The train ride may have been long but if you've carried one of those little cosmetic kits containing powder, cream, skin freshener and other beauty pick-ups you can look fresh and perky.

Tuck an extra pair of hose, a clothes brush, shoe brush and tooth brush into your kit. This will help for last minute repairs. In these days of crowded traveling and limited steward attendance, clothes inevitably get dusty, hose get a snag here and there, and shoes take a scuffing.

INTERIOR DECORATORS GET OUT BRIGHT NEW FURNISHING IDEAS

EXTRA SLEEPING SPACE in a small apartment can be made by placing two studio couches at right angles. By day, they center a cozy reading and lounging corner.

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The home decoration industry, faced with the greatest dearth of supplies it has ever known, has worked out some ingenious remedies for your wartime home furnishing headaches.

It has done so in the face of greatly depleted fabric stocks which, one New York decorator declares, "have made showrooms so bare you can almost hear your voice echo."

To do it the industry has dragged some kitchen fabrics into the living room, used mirror in novel ways, evolved some interesting space-savers and put the whole thing together with bright modern color schemes.

Are you wondering how on earth to replace the worn-out draperies in the dining room or living room? You might consider kitchen oilcloth. You may have to hunt for it, but it's worth the trouble. It is hanging at the windows of a number of small modern apartments these days—in both dull and shiny versions—and it has the added advantage of shutting out light.

Or you might do without any draperies at all—and simply top your white organdy or dotted Swiss curtains with a row of deep bead or silk fringe, or a looped valance of plain or striped taffeta.

Are you trying to find sleeping space for extra people in a small apartment? Try setting two studio couches at right angles in the living room, banking the wall with tailored cushions and flanking the ends of the couch with bookshelf cupboards which can also serve as lamp tables.

Or maybe you are wracking your brains over ways and means of providing extra closet space. Some clever women have solved that by buying several inexpensive wardrobes, setting them in the bedroom or the hall and papering them to match the wall.

If upholstery is your worry, consider the cotton and rayon fields as a number of New York decorators have. They are upholstering sofas and chairs in velveteen and making covers for beds and bedroom chairs of old-fashioned gingham. One decorator made bedspread and chair covers of blue and white gingham and tufted them with shocking pink buttons.

Mirror is doing a lot of good decorating work in wartime. It fills wall panels in living rooms and halls, makes coffee and bedside tables and frames a lot of pictures. Sometimes it is crystal-clear; again it is antiqued.

Antiques are solving a lot of household furnishing problems too. Decorators are scouring attics all over the country for them, polishing their finds and combining them with modern decorative color schemes.

These color schemes make anybody stop and take notice.

Dining rooms show such combinations as antique blue, lacquer red and white; living rooms combine fuchsia and mauve, and bedrooms feature peacock blue and coral.

Pasadena, Cal., has combined the fire alarm and fire prevention bureau records units in one office which now is run by women.

Is this gummy deposit, result of wartime driving conditions, strangling your engine?

Thousands of motorists used to trade in their cars every year or two, and never learned much about protective service.

Things are different today. No new cars have been built since early 1942. We've all got to make our present cars last.

So take good care of your car. Remember that wartime driving conditions affect your car—and that even the best of cars need attention as they get older.

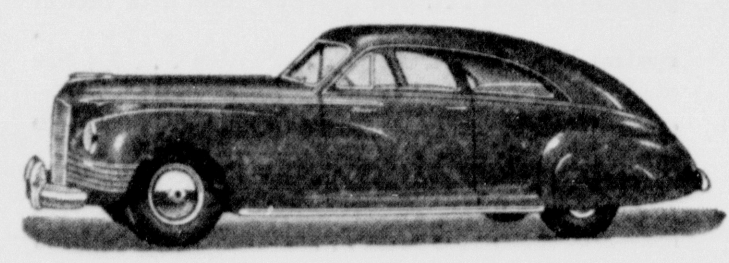

Remember, too, that new cars will be scarce for some time. You may have to drive your car a lot longer than you think!

Mechanics are scarce, and service departments are humming these days. Your Packard dealer is busy, but he wants to help you.

He can save time—and you can save money—by fixing little troubles before they grow up into big ones.

Don't wait 'til you need major repairs. Make an appointment now for a protective check-up. That's the way to avoid long lay-ups, and prolong the life of your car.

Ask the man who owns one . . . looks! A survey shows that Packard cars have stood up better—required less frequent service—and Packard owners have spent less on service.

German Reports Red Attacks Not Authentic

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

German broadcasters have shouted so often in announcing Russian or Allied offensives that they are not to be trusted. They are serving some home-front purpose of their own, possibly to stir up public apprehension or to claim victories if the operation described proves an affair of kind objective.

Full Scale Attack
The reason Berlin assertions that the American Third army General Patton has launched a full scale breakthrough effort against the Metz-guarded Lorraine way to the upper Rhine must be accepted with caution. That it is some definite relationship to preparations to turn or blast through the German Rhine defense wall goes without saying.

There is no good reason to doubt, however, that the next Allied main blow in the west will fall on the Dutch extension of the Siegfried line. That has been implicit in every Allied move since the sweep through France and Belgium reached German frontiers too far ahead to supply lines to push on immediately to the Rhine.

The objective for which Patton reported to have seven divisions battle on a fifty-mile wide front north of Metz to east of the Moselle defensive barrier he failed to make by assault.

Impedes Third Army

The Metz-Thionville canyon of the Moselle has figured in many important wars. It is a naturally strong position highly improved by the French and the Germans who have held it in times past. While it remains in enemy hands it greatly impedes Third army freedom of action along its whole front. The mere fact that army censors omitted disclosure that seven divisions had been thrown into the task is significant. Resort to close support use of heavy bombers further indicates the importance of the Third army drive in relation to the Allied assault plans at this point.

Hawkins will discuss probable developments in Maryland high schools.

Donald H. Brooks Sentenced To Die

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9 (P)—The death sentence was imposed today upon slim, bespectacled Donald H. Brooks, 31, AWOL army private, for the hammer killing of Mrs. Mary B. Finn, a widow, on her wedding day.

Brooks, who was convicted last October 6, was sentenced to be hanged, at a date to be set by Gov. O'Connor, by Judge John T. Tucker and J. Abner Saylor in criminal court.

Mrs. Finn, 63-year-old Baltimorean, was beaten to death last July 1 at the home of her fiancé, Charles Rommel, to whom Brooks is related by marriage. She had stayed overnight at Rommel's home because of a burglary scare in the neighborhood. He found Mrs. Finn's body when he came home from work the morning of July 1—their wedding day.

About $600 was stolen from the home. Judge Tucker, in announcing the sentence, said he and Judge Saylor had fully and carefully weighed the case and had decided the death penalty was "appropriate and proper."

Testimony at the soldier's trial by a woman he took to New York after the killing was that Brooks told her he had broken into Rommel's house to take money he knew was kept there. The prosecution asserted that he beat Mrs. Finn to death with a hammer after she surprised him.

"PRESTONE" Anti-Freeze KEEPS MOVING UP TO THE FRONT!

THE WAR PRODUCTION BOARD, with the cooperation of the Anti-Freeze Industry Advisory Committee, has put into effect a state allocation plan for the distribution of all brands of anti-freeze. This is your assurance that there should be enough anti-freeze of some kind to protect the nation's motorized equipment this winter.

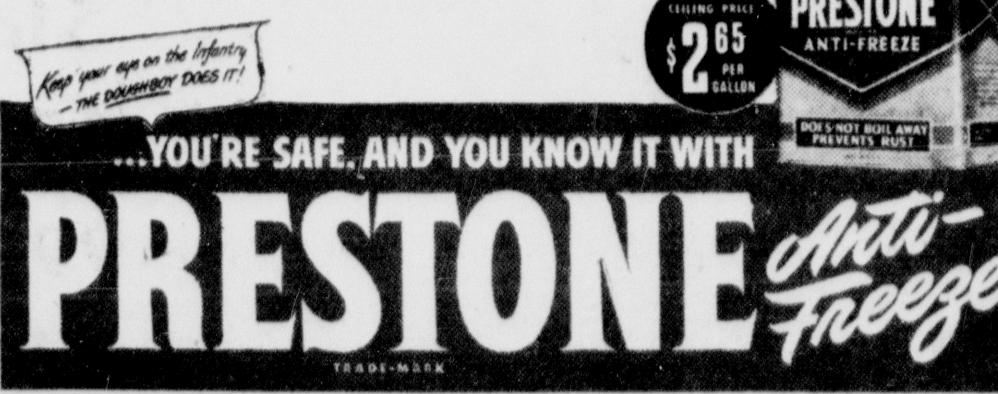

However, "Prestone" brand anti-freeze may not be available in some localities. The supply for civilian use is considerably reduced because heavy shipments are going overseas for the Armed Forces.

If you are able to get "Prestone" anti-freeze remember that it lasts all winter. It won't evaporate, boil away or lose effectiveness through "foaming." Protects against rust and corrosion.

Water Gardener Goes to Roots And Brings up a "Hot" Potato

By WALTER WARREN
AP Newsfeatures

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 7.—W. F. Gericke, hydroponics pioneer, has made a discovery which he believes can boost productivity of home gardens spectacularly.

It can enable a home gardener to raise a total of 5,000 bushels of potatoes in three crops a year on an acre of hydroponics tanks, he says.

The discovery is that growing plants in water changes the root structure. Anchor roots cannot grow in water. There is no anchorage for them—no resistance, no development. Only the absorptive roots grow—those whose function is to take up water and food.

The conception opens a wide field of implications, both scientific and practical, Gericke believes. The potato grower using hydroponics tanks and seedbeds puts weight on the beds. Weighting the seedbed litter gives the tubers something to buck, and they grow. Without enough resistance they do not grow as large.

Gericke now grows his hydroponics spuds to a couple of pounds or so apiece. Previously he spent fifteen years experimenting with waterculture, and never was able to get potatoes to grow in his shavings beds as large as the biggest Idaho potatoes.

THANKS TO TANKS: W. F. Gericke says gardener's potato crop can be increased.

He figures 5,000 bushels per acre per year this way: Berkeley climate will produce three crops a year in the same tanks, averaging 1,600 bushels per acre per crop, and running up to 2,000 bushels.

The information can be used to produce the reverse of big growth—dwarfs. His evergreens grown in hydroponics are dwarfs—because the root architecture has been changed, and with it, the architecture of the tree. He says he can grow miniature redwoods—little imitations of the mature California giants.

Home gardeners, he says, can use hydroponics to multiply vegetable production on limited space. It enables the gardener to give his plants three to four times the water they could get from soil, from half again to twice as much air through the root system, and several times as much nutrient for plant growth.

Hydroponics tanks can be made out of concrete, lumber or tar paper. Seedbeds are made out of one-by-three scantlings, for sides, with bottoms of chickenwire reinforced by lath. Cost of the hydroponics chemicals, Gericke says, is about ten cents per bushel of potato crop.

Drinking Drivers Ride with Death

CHICAGO.—(P)—Of the fatal automobile accidents occurring in 1943, about one in five involved a driver or pedestrian who had been drinking, according to the National Safety Council. Summaries show that one of every eight drivers and one of every five pedestrians who were involved in fatal traffic accidents last year had been drinking.

FIRST TROOPS CAME BACK FROM EUROPE
THREE WEEKS AFTER ARMISTICE IN 1918By RICHARD TOMPKINS
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Although V-E day does not coincide with Armistice day, mothers, wives and sweethearts nevertheless will be thinking tomorrow, as those did on November 11, 1918, of the soldier's return.

If tomorrow were V-E day, some could look forward to re-unions as early as three weeks hence, provided demobilization was set in motion as quickly as it was after the last war.

500,000 by Christmas

On Dec. 3, 1918, three weeks after the armistice, the old Mauretania docked at the Cunard pier with the first batch of returning American troops on board. By Christmas more than 500,000 men had returned; by the following September virtually all of the AEF had left France.

Only the army of occupation remained. With 40,000 men it reached its final objective on Dec. 16 at Coblenz, Germany. With the dissolution of the army of occupation in July, 1919, the "American forces in Germany," consisting of about 6,800 men, came into being and remained on the Rhine for more than three years.

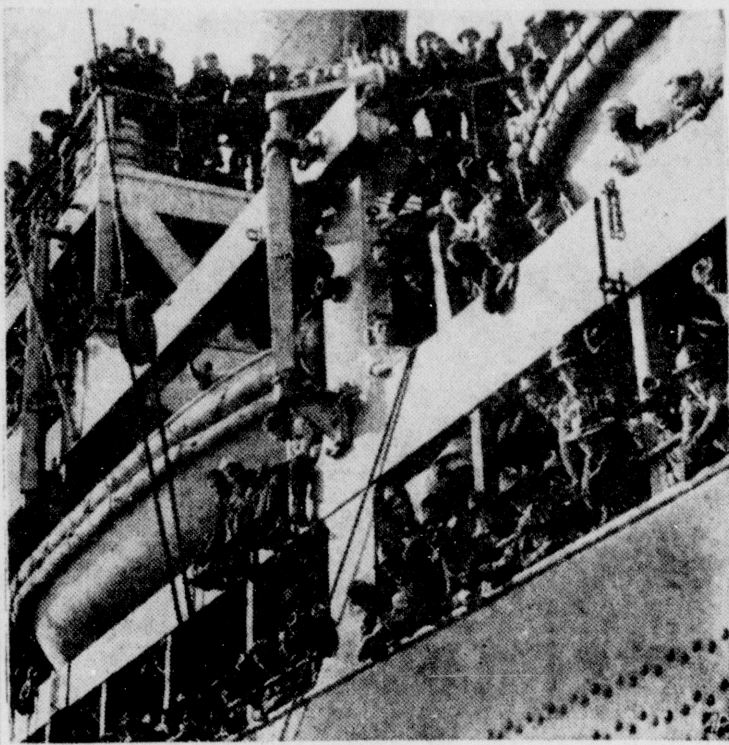

When the armistice was signed the whole machinery of transporting troops to France was reversed. Those of the 2,000,000 men in the AEF who did not catch the first ships attended classes in a large school system set up by the Army in which more than 230,000 were enrolled. Or they took their education tourist-style throughout Europe.

Got Pay on Discharge

All troops upon their departure from France were classified, as to the state from which they entered service, the number of sick and wounded, or requiring no special attention.

Based on this advance information the War department directed the distribution to demobilization camps of those arriving from France. Although deloused in France, the soldiers again were disinfected after arriving here; surplus equipment was taken in store, records were verified, and the men were paid in full at discharge.

The United States Employment Service aided the soldier in finding a job, and in some demobilization camps discharges were delayed in order not to increase the surplus in the labor market.

When the veterans of this war are mustered out, the plan is to assure their return to civilian life more quickly and with more assurance of security. The World War II veteran has a guarantee of his old job back, if he wants it; government loans to buy a home, farm or business; schooling, if he wants it, and other benefits.

Individual Discharges

In contrast to demobilization by military units, as carried out after the last war, the veteran this time will be treated as an individual. To determine priorities for individual discharges a point system will give credit for total months in the army, time overseas, decorations for combat service and dependent children. The soldier this time will be demobilized quickly. If he is not indispensable, and therein lies the rub. The war with Japan still is to be won and the armies of occupation will be larger and have to stay longer; so V-E Day plans call for only partial demobilization. However, those who are mustered out will find their return to civilian life greatly expedited and much easier than the 1918 doughboys.

Admiral Ingersoll
To Direct Shipping
Against the Japs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Admiral Royal R. E. Ingersoll, who proved his ability to convey vast quantities of supplies across the Atlantic, now will direct the pouring of men and material against Japan. Navy Secretary Forrester, at a news conference today, announced the transfer of Ingersoll from command of the Atlantic fleet to duty as commander of the western sea frontier effective about November 15.

In the new assignment, Ingersoll of La Porte, Ind., will "manage the flow of supplies to the Pacific fleet through west coast ports," Forrester said.

The Navy secretary added that appointment of Ingersoll is an "indication of the increased importance of the task" of moving supplies to the Pacific for the war against Japan.

Ingersoll will be succeeded as commander of the Atlantic fleet by Vice Admiral Jonas H. Ingram, who has been commander of the Fourth fleet in the South Atlantic. Ingram will be advanced to the rank of admiral. He will be succeeded by Rear Admiral William R. Monroe.

of Waco, Texas, who has been commander of the Third naval district with headquarters in New York.

Firemen Extinguish
Three Minor Fires;
Answer False Alarm

Although Cumberland firemen answered four calls Wednesday, all three of the minor fires reported were extinguished without damage. The fourth run proved to be a false alarm.

West Side firemen were called to the home of Robert W. Knight, 226 Beall street, yesterday at 3:12 p. m. The slight fire in the cellar, caused, firemen were told, by a small child playing with matches, was quickly extinguished and caused no damage.

West Side firemen were also called to the rear of the Court house at 12:26 p. m. when piled leaves in the arway of the building caught fire.

Burning rubbish was blamed for the fire at the home of Mrs. Emma Shade, 122 Mullin street, yesterday at 1:47 p. m. South End firemen, who extinguished the blaze in an abandoned chicken house, said the family was burning grass and rubbish and that sparks from the fire ignited the building. Damage was slight, firemen said.

When an occupant of the home of Lloyd Pitt, 708 Bedford street, heard the sound of crackling paper, she believed she heard the sound of a fire and turned in an alarm. East Side firemen explained, in reporting a false alarm yesterday at 1:10 p. m.

Newspapers Held Dominating Force In the Campaign

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (P)—Editor and Publisher, newspaper trade magazine, will say in an article tomorrow that "a close analysis of the election returns, county by county, will reveal that the newspapers of this country on the whole wield dominating influence."

Commenting on Interior Secretary Ickes' assertion in Washington today that there was a "decline in reader confidence" in the nation's press, the article, written by Robert U. Brown, editor, said:

"It is as nonsensical to indict the entire American press because a majority of the newspapers supported a losing candidate as it is to state that Mr. Roosevelt's success was due entirely to the twenty-two per cent of the papers that supported him. Neglecting to state the fact that twenty per cent were independent and neutral and that practically all of the newspapers gave an honest presentation of all political arguments in the news columns."

Ickes "Resigns"

Ickes told his news conference he had submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt, as he had done after previous elections. He smilingly replied, "I don't know," when asked if he had any reason to believe the resignation, a customary post-election cabinet procedure, would be accepted.

Ickes then declared:

"I wish again as four years ago, to invite, in friendly fashion American newspaper publishers through their editorial columns, to give the country their explanation of facts which seem to me to indicate a progressively unhappy and dangerous decline in reader confidence without which a free press lacks strength."

"This nation has again questioned in ringing tones the right of the press to represent readers' opinion by selecting a president supported by only 17.7 per cent of the press and actively opposed by 68.5 per cent with only 13.8 per cent presenting themselves as neutral."

Ickes said the figures were taken from an Editor and Publisher poll on Nov. 4. (The figures, Brown said, represented the proportions of the total daily circulation of the newspapers polled.)

Article Explained

The Editor and Publisher article said "in practically every instance it is found that the large voting population in the metropolitan areas, where many factors in voting must be considered, were controlling in the final count."

"In New York state," the trade publication continued, "the E & P poll showed seventy-five per cent of the dailies supporting Dewey. He captured fifty-four counties in the state leaving only eight to Mr. Roosevelt who won by virtue of those metropolitan districts."

"The same holds true in Pennsylvania where fifty counties were for Dewey and only seventeen chose Roosevelt. Our poll showed seventy-one per cent of the papers for Dewey."

"In New Jersey twelve counties went for Dewey and nine for Roosevelt with the Editor and Publisher survey showing a fifty-seven per cent backing for the Republicans."

"Dewey took eighty-two counties in Illinois with Roosevelt winning the state by virtue of eighteen counties. Two were unreported at the time of this writing. That state in our poll showed a seventy-two per cent support for Dewey."

"Instead of a waning influence, these figures prove that our community newspapers are quite avidly followed by their readers."

"Open House" Is Held At Allegany; 350 Attend

"Open house" was held at Allegany high school Wednesday night with 350 attending.

Ralph R. Webster, principal, discussed what Allegany is trying to do academically, telling of opportunities offered students and discussing various projects in relation to the war.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of county schools, discussed conditions which brought education to its present point and told of a survey recently conducted by Allegany in which the majority of parents stressed the teaching of character. He also discussed postwar schools and touched on Maryland's plans for future education.

Miss Helen Welsh played a number of organ selections.

Seat in Congress Won by Corporal

CAMP LEE, Va., Nov. 9 (P)—A 39-year-old inventory clerk in the quartermaster's office here is going to trade his corporal stripes and a $66 a month salary for the $10,000 a year post as a representative from the Twenty-Second congressional district of Illinois.

Corporal Congressman-Elect C. Melvin Price, of East St. Louis, Ill., received unofficial word late yesterday that he had been elected to the House of Representatives on the Democratic ticket defeating Rep. Calvin D. Johnson, a Republican.

Will Help Troops

The short and balding Price, unperturbedly spent election night on a cleanup detail unloading 390 bushels of apples. Said the corporal of his experience in the army:

"I feel that after living with servicemen for more than a year and being one of them, I know the kind of treatment they want. It makes me feel like a real representative of all servicemen and I know something about the enlisted man's point of view, not the officers."

When he will be released from the army to take up his new legislative duties, Price doesn't know. He's awaiting official word from Washington of his status.

Lifelong Democrat

Price's interest in politics started in 1932 when he was assigned to cover the Illinois gubernatorial contest. Following that he spent ten years in Washington as secretary to Rep. Edwin M. Schaeffer (D-Ill.).

Price has been a Democrat all his life and he managed the St. Louis university baseball team the same season Democratic National Chairman Robert Hannegan played. Because of army regulations prohibiting active campaigning by soldiers, Price's campaign was handled by the Democratic organization in his district.

Gasoline Promised Right After War

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 9 (P)—High quality gasoline will be made available to civilian motorists again almost immediately after the war ends, B. E. Sibley of the Continental Oil Company of Ponca City said today.

Sibley addressed a meeting of the society of automotive engineers which opened today and will continue through tomorrow.

"As soon as hostilities cease," he said, "refiners will be in a position to supply civilian motorists with the high octane and high volatility gasoline available before the war."

He added, however, that changes in octane rating will be gradual, as a great proportion of the automobiles in service the first year after the war will be old models operating best on gasoline designed for their particular engines.

Bricker To Continue Interest in Politics

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9 (P)—Gov. John W. Bricker, unsuccessful Republican candidate for vice president, said today that he would maintain an interest in politics, though not necessarily as a candidate, when he completes his third term as Ohio governor Dec. 31.

Asked at his first press conference since his defeat if he planned to continue in politics, Bricker said he would return to his law firm but added:

"I'm always interested in politics. That doesn't always mean being a candidate, however."

Bricker agreed with Presidential Candidate Gov. Thomas E. Dewey that "the Republican party came out of the campaign revitalized" and devoid of "factionalism."

Roosevelt Looks Over His Estate

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 9 (P)—President Roosevelt looked over the farm of his Dutchess county estate early today and then spent a quiet afternoon in the Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial library.

He will return to Washington tomorrow morning to take up again the White House office hours interrupted a week ago by his final campaign trip of his successful fourth term.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, told reporters there was "nothing in sight now" so far as he knew about a future meeting between the president, Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill, although the president himself had indicated at several news conferences that another "Big Three" meeting would be held, possibly this year.

Pearl Harbor Report Within Two Weeks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (P)—Navy Secretary Forrestal said today that some action on the report of a board of inquiry which investigated circumstances of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor may be expected within two weeks.

He made the estimate at a news conference saying "we may hear within the next fortnight."

The report was submitted to the navy secretary October 20 after a long series of hearings at which it is understood that Rear Admiral Husband Kimmel and Major General Walter C. Short, navy and army commanders at the time of the attack, gave their version of the circumstances before the Japanese struck.

Both Kimmel and Short were relieved shortly after the attack.

Fewer U-Boat Attacks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (P)—German submarine activity this past October was materially lower than any other month of the war, an Anglo-American government statement said tonight.

had hidden the wrecked craft since May 14, 1943.

Four other members of the crew had parachuted to safety, but were unable to find the crashed plane.

Wife Enters Suit To Obtain Divorce

Charging her husband with desertion and cruelty, Mrs. Thelma B. Carroll filed suit in circuit court yesterday for a partial divorce from William Carroll. They were married October 18, 1941, and lived together until March 29, 1944, according to the bill of complaint. Mrs. Carroll asks custody of their two minor children.

Associate Judge William A. Huster ordered Carroll to pay Mrs. Carroll $30 twice a month for her and the children's support during the litigation. Carroll also was restrained from molesting his wife. Julius E. Schindler represents Mrs. Carroll.

Mrs. Lillian L. Hardinger filed suit in court yesterday for a partial divorce from Claude P. Hardinger on grounds of cruelty and asked for custody of their three children. They were married November 30, 1935.

Judge Huster ordered Hardinger to pay Mrs. Hardinger $20 weekly for support during the litigation. Hardinger also was restrained from entering Mrs. Hardinger's home and from molesting her. She is represented by Edwin M. Hochstetler.

Mrs. Frances E. Williams seeks an absolute divorce from Percy Lee Williams on desertion grounds in another suit filed yesterday. They were married April 20, 1940, and lived together until September 15, 1942, according to the bill of complaint. Williams is in the armed forces. Mrs. Williams is represented by Estel C. Kelly.

Fish's Successor In Congress Will Sit on GOP Side

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Nov. 9 (P)—Augustus W. Bennett, the man who ended Republican Rep. Hamilton Fish's 24-year congressional career, said today he would sit on the Republican side in the new House of Representatives, but that his vote would be "independent."

"I was elected by tens of thousands of Republican votes," Bennett said, "and I have always enrolled as a Republican."

"Nevertheless," he added, "I am grateful to the Democrats, without whom I would not have been elected. I have already written the Democratic chairman of the four counties by my district thanking them for putting me on their ticket and supporting me at the polls."

Bennet ran on the Democratic American Labor, Liberal and Good Government tickets after losing to Fish in the Republican primary election for the Twenty-ninth congressional district.

Here's Final Count For New York State

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 9 (P)—President Roosevelt's unofficial New York plurality stood at 316,013 over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey tonight with all of the state's 9,121 districts reported.

Complete returns gave the president 3,293,889 votes and Dewey 2,977,856.

Dewey's margin in traditionally Republican upstate and Long Island was 453,836 as compared with Mr. Roosevelt's New York city lead of 769,849.

A total of 807,087 votes cast by two minor parties—the American Labor and the Liberal—were more than twice enough to determine the president's margin of victory.

Two Cadets Killed

LA JUNTA, Colo., Nov. 9 (P)—Two aviation cadets were killed last night in the crash of a twin-engine plane four miles northwest of the La Junta army airfield.

Reinforced Japs Dealt Hard Blow

By MURLIN SPENCER

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, PHILIPPINES, Friday, Nov. 10 (P)—Weatherbeaten doughboys drove over rain-lashed ridges for extensive gains south of Carigara bay today as the Japanese poured reinforcements into Leyte island to replace an estimated 35,000 men lost in the campaign which Gen. Douglas MacArthur termed the key to the Philippines.

Grim veterans of the Twenty-fourth division broke the stalemate to make "extensive gains on a wide front" along the typhoon-swept road leading to Ormoc, Japan's last stronghold on the island, now roaring with fires set by bombs and artillery shells.

Jap Division Smashed

Japan's Sixteenth division — conquerors and torturers of Bataan — has been smashed as a fighting unit, MacArthur reported, and an estimated 35,000 reinforcements have been landed to rebuild the original force.

The Thirty-fifth Imperial army has been sent to Leyte, the general said. The fresh troops are pouring into Ormoc, on Leyte's western coast, from Cebu, Mindanao and other adjacent Philippine islands.

The enemy, said the communique, "is making a desperate effort to retrieve the strategic position which he lost in Eastern Leyte in the first phase of the campaign, and which threatens his entire hold on the Philippines."

Fresh Troops Massed

Most of these fresh troops are massed in the narrow, ridge-bordered valley north of Ormoc, down which the Yanks are driving. The Americans hold better than a two to one numerical superiority.

Under constant shelling and bombing, Ormoc's "usefulness to the enemy as a supply base has been greatly reduced," the communique said.

The veterans of the Twenty-fourth division smashed through Japanese ridge positions south and east of Limon, four miles from Carigara bay, near where the Americans had been stalled for nearly four days by cyclonic weather and desperate Nipponese delaying tactics.

The Yanks seized commanding terrain on a key hill, identified as No. 1525, and near the mountain village of Minor, about six miles east by south of Limon. Minor lies at the foot of a 517 foot high ridge.

96th Division Advances

Simultaneously, elements of the Ninety-sixth division, which has plunged westward across the mountains from Eastern Leyte, destroyed numerous Japanese strongpoints.

As the weather cleared, aircraft again swept the skies. American Leyte-based fighters made numerous low-level bombing and strafing attacks on enemy installations, shipping and concentrations.

The Japanese are reinforcing Leyte on a scale unprecedented in the Pacific campaign.

The estimate of enemy losses includes both dead and wounded and approximately 5,000 men dispersed into the foothills who no longer are considered a unified fighting force.

New Guinea Holds Antiseptic Wedding

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP)—At a recent service wedding in Port Moresby, the bride wore a wedding gown of surgical muslin, artificial orange blossoms of antiseptic cotton and a bouquet made from surgical ribbon.

The wedding ring was fashioned from old pieces of surgical gold by a dental mechanic. A few spoonfuls of brandy from medical supplies were used as a "preserving ingredient" for the wedding cake.

Satisfied Customer

HULL, Eng. (AP)—Cpl. Wilfred Gibson of Hull left his Arras billet in France in a hurry when the

'Fixin's' Short For '44 Turkeys

NEW YORK, (AP)—Cranberry sauce will garnish every G. I. turkey this Thanksgiving, but because of weather damage to the cranberry crop, supplies will not go as far as usual around the civilian dinner table, according to a distributor of this holiday delicacy.

"A single spring freeze which hit New England cranberry bogs on the night of May 18-19 may have accounted for the reduced output," says Harvey A. Baum, head of produce-buying operations for a chain of good stores. "The lengthy summer drought also took a toll in other sections of the country."

Penicillin Found In Decaying Mint

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maybe there's good medicine in a long cool mint julep, huh? Brig. Gen. Hugh J. Morgan, chief consultant to the Army surgeon general, said recently that penicillin notatum, the mold from which the wonder drug penicillin is obtained, has been found in decaying hyssop. Hyssop is another name for mint.

The man had been undergoing treatment for a heart ailment.

Mrs. Ida Glisan Sues Executor Of Husband's Will

Accuses Brother-in-law of Failing To Manage Estate Properly

Charging her brother-in-law with failing to carry out the provisions of her husband's will, Mrs. Ida S. Glisan filed suit in circuit court yesterday against Howard Glisan asking that he be held accountable for property he handled as executor of Albert E. Glisan's estate and that the court take jurisdiction over the estate so that the purposes of the will will be carried out.

Albert Glisan, former garage operator here, died a number of years ago and under the terms of his will his widow was to receive $5,000 with the remaining portion of the estate left in trust with his brother, Howard, so it could be invested and the proceeds paid to Mrs. Glisan during the rest of her life, the bill of complaint related.

Qualified as Executor

Mrs. Glisan asserted that Howard Glisan qualified as executor of the will but failed to qualify as trustee as provided by the will.

She charges that he has failed to pay her the $5,000 awarded her by the will and has failed to properly manage her husband's estate.

The will directs, according to the bill of complaint, that Howard Glisan was to invest no more in the automobile business in which Albert Glisan was interested than such part of the estate as might be invested in the business at the time of the testator's death.

Mrs. Glisan declares that she has reason to believe Howard Glisan is and has been disposing of the assets of Albert Glisan without having properly accounted for them or without following directions as set forth in the will.

She adds that she believes Howard Glisan should be compelled to account in circuit court for the property he handled as executor of her husband's estate and that the court should direct by decree that he pay her $5,000 with interest as provided by the will and that a decree likewise should be entered against him for income from her husband's estate to which she is entitled.

Asks for Accounting

Howard Glisan is asked to answer the bill of complaint "on his oath" and to set forth in detail all the sums received by him from his brother's estate and all property, stocks and bonds delivered to him as executor together with all income received from the stocks, bonds and estate.

Mrs. Glisan likewise asks that her brother-in-law be decreed to pay to her all amounts due her as provided by the will.

She is represented by Edward J. Ryan.

"High-Pressure Jones" Wages One-Can War

By NOLAND NORGAARD
AP Newsfeatures

ROME—Officially she is the U.S.S. Hilary P. Jones, a Navy destroyer, but to the free fighting men of the Mediterranean she is "High-Pressure Jones," the ship that is waging a "one-can war" on the Germans in the Gulf of Genoa.

The Jones, one of several American destroyers that have been making life tough for the enemy along the Ligurian coast, has done a lot of shooting in the past two months since American troops invaded Southern France.

Altogether in that period her five-inch guns have fired nearly 3,500 shells—several times as many as in her four years of previous service in the Atlantic and Mediterranean as a patrol and escort vessel.

A Target Blitzer

However, sailors talk most of the day when Comdr. Frederick M. Stiesberg took the Jones close inshore to shoot up the harbors of San Remo and Porto Maurizio, two important supply bases from which Nazi light coastal craft slipped down the Italian shore with munitions for the German armies on the Italian front.

The Jones fired 406 rounds at San Remo that day in fifty-five minutes of hot action. With shells from German 88-millimeter guns splashing all around her, she fired at seventeen targets and damaged or destroyed fifteen.

Three ammunition dumps and three lighters laden with ammunition were blown up, one anti-aircraft battery was knocked out and three were silenced. The Jones also wrecked a concentration of scows, hit a tug, destroyed two motor torpedo boats, hit three smaller craft of the same type, and left a 200-foot coastal freighter afloat.

When the shooting was finished, Comdr. Stiesberg was able to signal back that the Jones had knocked out everything of military value in the harbor.

But that wasn't a full day's work.

Later the same afternoon the Jones steamed close into Porto Maurizio and opened fire with guns still warm from the previous engagement.

When the smoke from the first salvo cleared, an air spotter reported, "direct hit where an 88-millimeter gun was."

Then the Jones blew up an ammunition dump, silenced anti-aircraft batteries surrounding the target, got direct hits on five motor torpedo boats, destroyed a larger boat, set afire two jetties, and destroyed two or three small motor boats.

On another occasion the Jones boldly steamed along the Riviera coast and broke up two German counterattacks by hurling 330 rounds into Nazi troop concentrations. The enemy broke and fled.

Brother Helps Brother
Claude S. Griffin, gunner's mate first class aboard the Jones, had a brother, Pic, Everett Griffin of Lunenburg, N. Y., with the American troops who were the objective of the German counterattacks. Pvt. Griffin wrote to his sailor brother that he would not mind trying such a fight again "if we have the Jones out there giving us fire power," and an army air spotter overhead at the time signalled, "That's the best shooting I have ever seen."

One reason for that kind of shooting is that Comdr. Stiesberg is a former gunnery officer who, in his own words, "really liked that job."

The crew of the Jones admit they have had anxious moments, but their luck has been good. Off Porto Maurizio an 88-mm shell played the water alongside so close the ship shuddered. Another went over the bridge so low a lookout claimed it creased his helmet.

The performance of the Jones has been no accident. "It was hard, bearing down on all hands all the time, but when the time came, the men knew their job and really performed," explained the executive officer, Lt. Comdr. Clark Freeman.

The United States spends about $2,300 to train and supply an armorer for the army air forces.

Announcing that the No. 13 coupons in the new "A" gasoline ration books are now valid, Karl W. Radcliffe, chief clerk of the local War Price and Rationing Board, said yesterday that 10,300 "A" books have been issued to residents of Allegheny county.

Drivers who failed to apply for their new books and are without stamps must not operate their cars until they receive their "A" books, Radcliffe said, adding that about 2,000 motorists are awaiting receipt of their gasoline rations in the county.

Sadistic Tramp Sticks Dewey-Bricker Pin Into Dog's Ear

A sadistic tramp, dressed in a checkered overcoat and carrying a bundle under his arm, was responsible for what police characterized as one of the most despicable acts of cruelty reported here when he stuck a Dewey-Bricker pin into a dog's ear at the intersection of North Center and Frederick streets yesterday about 10:30 p. m.

According to bystanders, the tramp held the dog down on the pavement and stuck the pin into the dog's left ear. Attracted by the dog's piteous cries, several persons ran to the scene and tried to catch the man who disappeared down Liberty street.

Officer R. C. Cassen, stationed at the Baltimore-Centre street crossing, rushed to the place and chased the dog up Henry street in order to remove the pin. All efforts to find the stranger were unavailable, police said.

GENERAL "IKE'S" CIRCUS WAGON

Eisenhower Field Headquarters on Wheels

FILE GHQ—This is the three-unit trailer caravan now used as field headquarters by Eisenhower.

By BERT DARLING
Central Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON — When Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower moved his headquarters from Britain to France in order to maintain close contact with his advancing American, Canadian and British armies, he made sure that his "circus wagon" was along.

The "circus wagon" is the Allied commander's pet name for his three-unit trailer caravan.

designed and built by workers at an American aircraft corporation (Lockheed Overseas corporation) base in Northern Ireland.

"All the comforts of home," the general will probably sparkle if you happen to be one of the war correspondents arriving at supreme headquarters, A. E. F., and you can well believe that when you see the glistening chrome, polished black linoleum floors, tinted pearl-gray walls and green leather upholstered furniture.

Longer than an ordinary freight car are the sixty-foot trailers. A smaller unit for eating and sleeping purposes is also on hand.

It was in the last car that Eisenhower spent the night when Allied paratroopers were sifting silently down among the apple orchards and hedgerows of Normandy. It was also in this car that he was informed by phone that those first blows struck by the paratroopers and airborne infantry to the rear of the German lines, in the tense moments before H-hour, had met with amazing, almost unhopied-for success.

Huddled over photographic reconnaissance maps and intelligence reports, Eisenhower and his staff planned many of the last-minute details of the big known about until the signal to invade had been given.

The "circus wagon" was constructed at Lockheed's air force repair depot in Ireland from existing stocks and parts manufactured from depot material, showing the considerable ingenuity which Yankees have a way of taking with them to all parts of the globe.

The invasion caravan is composed of operations and living quarters. It is hauled by semi-trailers. The operations vans are equipped with conference tables for the commander and his staff.

Proving that the men who put it together thought of everything.

battle maps are wound on recessed rollers and tucked into the ceiling.

At one end a screen may be rolled down for the projection of reconnaissance films. Some of the most vital papers of the war are cached in a carefully-hidden safe.

General Eisenhower's billeting van is divided into eating and sleeping quarters, and there's a personal study office. The home comprises a bunk, kitchenette, shower and chemical lavatory.

All units are windowless and are equipped with an air-conditioning system. A portable unit provides power. Radio equipment and a telephone outlet keep the general advised of the latest developments.

Two Army Backs Are Candidates For All-America

Notre Dame Has Its Bob
Kelly and Navy Has Its Bob Jenkins

By ORLO ROBERTSON
NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—When Army's unbeaten football team and once defeated Notre Dame clash Saturday at the Yankee stadium, three of the outstanding candidates for All-America backfield honors will be on parade.

The gridiron season has produced a dozen or so backs who rate serious consideration for the mythi-cal eleven but none is more prominent than Army's Felix Blanchard, a plunging fullback with the speed of a halfback. Fleet Glenn Davis, of Army, and Bob Kelly, the 19-year-old halfback who reels off touchdowns for the Irish, also have drawn rave notices.

Blanchard, 205-pound plebe, is given much of the credit for making possible Coach Earl Blaik's high scoring combination. His presence in the lineup makes it imperative that the Cadets' opponents draw up their line in close formation. If they don't, Blanchard is liable to blast his way off tackle. If they do, then the way is clear for Davis and such fleet mates as Doug Kenna
and Max Minor to circle the ends.

Navy Has Bob Jenkins
Kelly, a Chicago high school product, has been running goalward ever since he joined the Notre Dame varsity the latter part of the 1943 season. Even in the whipping handed Irish by Navy last week, the 183-pounder stood out. He's an excellent punter and a very tricky runner.

Any coach would be happy to have just these three men with a player named Joe thrown in to complete his backfield but there are enough other great backs to give the All-America selectors plenty of headaches before the team is announced a month hence.

Navy has its chief candidate in Bob Jenkins, a fullback from Alabama who delights in ripping lines apart. There's a host of good backs at Annapolis but the 195-pound
Jenkins is a standout.

Ohio State has Les Horvath sparking a wealth of freshman backs. Horvath, 23-year-old dental student, playing his fourth year with the unbeaten Bucks after a year in the army, is a dynamic runner with ability to pitch passes in full stride.
Illinois is backing Claude (Buddy)
Young, national 100-meter champion, for All-America honors and not without reason. The chunky negro is as fast as they come in a football suit and Notre Dame, especially, remembers his seventy-three-yard run.

Feminore Is Speed Demon
Bob Feminore, a sophomore at Oklahoma A. and M., likewise is a speed demon. But he's also one of the old-type triple threat men, kicking and passing with equal ability. He's given much of the credit for knocking off previously unbeaten Tulsa two weeks ago.

Looking over only a few of the remainder, Bob Weiss and Bob Nussbaumer, who performed at Michigan until their recent military transfer; Tom McWilliams, freshman on Mississippi State's all-victorious eleven; Gordon Gray, of Southern California, rated the best collegiate back on the West coast before his recent transfer; Bob Horschmeyer, of Indiana, and Boris (Bo) Dimancheff, Purdue's outstanding offensive and defensive ball carrier.

Resume Grid Series

Penn State and Syracuse met in football every year from 1922 through 1942. The two met again November 4 after a year's lapse caused by Syracuse's withdrawal from the sport.

The first permanent French settlement in the New World was founded by Samuel Champlain in 1608.

Atkinson Seeks '44 Riding Honors

By FRED HAYDEN
NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—It will be a natural if Ted Atkinson finishes the racing season as the leading jockey. He's been in the saddle exactly seven years.

Right now "Thin Theodore" has 287 winners, higher than any title-winning total of the past seven years except for the 287 piled up by the late Earl Dew in 1940.

Atkinson never has won the riding crown but last year was second to Johnny Adams's 228 with an even Johnny Longen in the amount of money won. Longen's mounts collected $573,276, Atkinson's $497-697.

The Toronto Terror says "I think the first requisite for a successful rider is having that certain something—you can't define it—of getting run out of a horse. Even some of our top riders can't always do that with certain horses, despite their ability, good seat, good hands, etc."

Just to be sure, however, that none of the other jockeys cut into his lead, Atkinson will head for Pimlico following the closing of the New York season next Wednesday and will remain at the Maryland oval until Nov. 25. Then he goes to Florida and the winter campaign which gets under way Dec. 1.

Bobby Permane, the Camden, N.
J. youngster who set the Florida tracks afire last winter, is second in the number of winners with an aggregate of approximately thirty less than Atkinson.

The lean, keen native of Canada thinks that Devil Diver is the greatest horse he has ever ridden and that Eddie Arcaro and George Woolf are on a par as the best present day riders.

More than 40,000 freight and passenger trains are operated daily throughout the United States.

Murray Meets Walker At Baltimore Monday

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9 (AP)—Buddy Walker, rangy Columbus, O., negro heavyweight who has won four of his last five bouts in Baltimore, will meet Lee Q. Murray, of New York, Maryland duration champion, Monday night in a ten-round feature event at the Coliseum.

Murray, also a negro, is expected to be the favorite at fight time.
He is undefeated in seven battles in Baltimore, and won over Curtis (Hatchetman) Sheppard in his last appearance here in June.

Walker has been successful against all opposition but Sheppard, losing twice to the Hatchetman.

Two Bainbridge Backs Are on Casualty List

BAINBRIDGE, Md., Nov. 9 (AP)—
The undefeated Bainbridge naval training center football team will meet the Cherry Point (N.C.) marines here Saturday without the services of two first-string backs, Team

Physician Lt. (jg) Milton Markowitz
announced today.

Lt. Markowitz said Fullback Harvey (Stud) Johnson had suffered a severe injury to the muscles of his right shoulder and would not play again before the Camp Peary game
Nov. 25. Quarterback Hilliard Cheatham is suffering from a badly swollen ankle and will be rested
Saturday, the officer added.

The Commodore defeated North Carolina pre-flight 49-20 last week.

Haegg Will Report For Military Service

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 9
(AP)—Gunder Haegg, Swedish military, said today he had been ordered to report for military service Dec. 20
but was seeking a postponement until January because he expected a heavy Christmas rush at the Mal-moe haberdashery where he is employed.

Discussing a proposed trip to the United States, Haegg declared that "I am reluctant to go for the winter season because I don't believe that Sweden can make a good showing indoors without a long period of training. If I receive an invitation for the summer campaign I'll think about it, providing I am in shape."

The Allegany High Campers will heavily favored to extend their winning streak to six games when they meet the LaSalle Explorers in a return battle tonight at 8 o'clock at the Fort Hill Stadium.

The West Siders, with their eyes on a share of the city scholastic championship, must turn back the Explorers to remain in the running. Campers loss to LaSalle would give the Explorers a bye in the first round of the playoffs.

Last week, the Alleganyans trimmed the Charles Town (W. Va.) Panthers in their sixth victory in seven starts this season. LaSalle has been idle for two weeks since bowing 39-12 to the West Siders on October 27.

Germans Do Not Want Russians To Take Reich, Larry Allen Says

War Correspondent Asserts Nazis May Capitulate to British and American Forces

Germany may capitulate to British and American forces in an attempt to keep Russian troops from dominating the Reich, Larry Allen, noted Associated Press war correspondent, said here last night.

Addressing 450 persons in the auditorium of Allegany high school at 8:15 p. m., Allen explained that German officers believed they would get better treatment from the Americans and British, and that they wanted to keep Russian troops out of Berlin at all costs.

The war correspondent, who returned to this country last summer on the Gripsholm after spending twenty months in German and Italian prison camps, was the first speaker to be presented by the Cumberland Community Forum. He replaced Richard Harkness, radio news analyst, who was unable to appear.

Are Training Children

Speaking in a quiet, unemotional voice, Allen declared that German children are being prepared to avenge the fatherland in case the Nazis are defeated in the present war.

"Storm Troopers drill children from 6 to 14 years old and teach them how to fire pistols, rifles and machine guns," he stated. "They are indoctrinated with the belief that they belong to the master race, and their creed is one of hatred for every other country on earth."

Allen, who was accredited to the British Mediterranean fleet at the time of his capture, first was held in an Italian prisoner of war camp near Chieti, east of Rome. After the Italian armistice he fell into German hands and was sent to a prison camp in Poland in October, 1941.

"The Germans packed 100 American officers into box cars which normally held forty men and eight horses," Allen said. "We were without food, light or water. Many of the boys cut holes in the floor of our box car and dropped between the rails, lying flat while the train passed over them and then made their escape."

Allen escaped in a similar manner and hid in a swamp for a week living on a few vitamin tablets. When he was within sight of the Swiss frontier, he was too exhausted to go on, and appealed to two Italian farmers for aid.

"They turned me over to the Germans for 2,000 lire, which equals about $9 in American money. Even in that bloated, bombastic country I thought I was worth more than that," Allen said.

Describing a German prison camp for captured American officers, located near Posen on the southern tip of the Polish corridor, Allen said that the daily ration for each officer was a thin slice of sour black bread, a bowl of ersatz soup, and two moldy potatoes.

"Our boys are keeping up their morale by refusing to let the Germans break their spirit," he declared. "If any of you have sons who are in German or Italian prison camps, send them parcels of food, not clothing. They need all the extra food they can get, and the Red Cross food parcels are the food you send keep them alive."

On his way to a civilian internment camp, from which he was later sent to Barcelona, Allen persuaded his guards to let him stop off in Dresden, Breslau and Regensburg to see for himself what Allied bombing raids had done to German industrial plants.

"Bombing Results Explained

"Every German industry has been wiped out, and eighty per cent of their war industries are now underground," the correspondent declared. "But our boys are fighting against semi-civilized fanatics, and I doubt whether the war in Europe will end until the late spring or summer of 1945."

Allen, a native of Mt. Savage, joined the Associated Press in 1933. Previously he worked on the Baltimore News, the Washington Herald, the Charleston, W. Va., Daily Mail, and other newspapers. He is a Pulitzer prize winner.

C. William Gilchrist, chairman of the forum committee of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, introduced the speaker.

Power of Education Is Stressed At Meeting of Ridgeley P-T.A.

The power of education for good or evil was stressed by Eston K. Feaser, Petersburg, W. Va., assistant Grant county superintendent of schools, and former principal of the elementary school, in his talk on American Education week at the joint meeting of the Ridgeley elementary school and high school Parent-Teachers associations last evening in the high school auditorium.

Feaser developed his talk in three parts; first "What the Education System Has Already Done," and to show how it teaches the child to think, he told of an English general asking an American general, after a battle early in the African campaign, why the American soldier was so superior. The American general explained that the American men are trained to think and not be mere mechanical men.

"The Weakness of the Education System," was the second part of his talk, and the speaker pointed out that thirteen per cent of the adult population of the United States is functionally illiterate, not having completed the fourth grade, three times as many as are college graduates.

In concluding Feaser discussed "What We Must Do in the Future," to overcome the weaknesses of the system, and what was needed to prepare the child to meet the tasks of the future. He suggested that the fundamentals should be taught better as well as teaching more pupils attended.

Big Gifts Group Reports $3,575 To Fund Drive

Queen City Brewing Company Makes Contribution of $1,100

An early report of twelve contributions to the advanced gifts committee totaled $3,575, an increase of approximately fifteen per cent over giving of the same contributors a year ago, leaders of the National War Fund in Allegany county and the Cumberland Community Chest campaign said yesterday.

Drive officials said a few members of the advanced gifts committee turned in the early reports in order to help determine what kind of response is being received to solicitation, and William A. Gunter, committee chairman, said first indications of the campaign are that contributors are not only giving liberally but willingly.

Make Biggest Gifts

Largest contributions turned in at the early report were those of the Queen City Brewing Company and the Liberty Trust Company. The brewing firm's contribution was $1,100 and the banking firm gave $500.

Gunter declared that members of the committee have made several contacts to date and received very considerable responses.

He added that some contributions, increased over last year, were received even before the givers were contacted. Gunter termed "fine" the spirit of giving thus far in the campaign.

The contributors of large funds, campaign officials said, apparently appreciate the urgency of war fund and chest needs and are glad to contribute adequately.

City Goal $22,000 Higher

They added that the approximate fifteen per cent increase in giving noted in the early report appears to be about the standard of increase needed inasmuch as the goal for Cumberland this year is $22,000 higher than it was a year ago.

Contributions received in the early report include Queen City Brewing Company, $1,100; Liberty Trust Company, $500; Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Hawkins, $300; O. O. Wilson, $200; L. Bernstein Furniture Company, $200; Joseph Klavan, $110.

W. Burton, proprietor of Burton's Incorporated, 175 E. W. Smith, $125; Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company, $450; Mrs. Mary Gillette, $150; Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gunter, $165; and William L. Sherman, $100.

Giving the demonstrations will be Herman Lissey, producer; John Bloecher, dry goods, and Norman Wilson, meats. Bloecher is president of the IROGMA, Lissey is vice president and Wilson is a director.

Local OPA officials stress that the meeting is important to retailers, wholesalers and consumers. Invitations to attend have been extended to Parent-Teachers associations and civic and labor groups. Prior to the meeting, Walker, McCormick, and a local grocer will broadcast from 6:15 to 6:30 p. m. from WTBO.

Forest Fire Endangers Powder House Half Filled With Dynamite

Firemen Extinguish 800 Attend Fort Hill Visitors' Night Program

The forest supervisor also disclosed last night that further investigation showed that a forest fire Wednesday on Dan's mountain, near Westernport, burned about twenty-five acres instead of only two as first reported.

Preliminary investigation indicated that the fire broke out in four places on the west side of the mountain Wednesday afternoon, but Bodkin said the fire actually started about midnight Tuesday, practically burned itself out in the dampness of early morning hours and then rekindled in the afternoon when it was first discovered. There was only one fire instead of four as at first reported, he added.

Bodkin stated he extinguished a fire in a tree on Dan's mountain, and one-half miles west of Rawlings, at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. No ground was burned. Coon hunters probably trying to smoke an animal out of a tree were blamed.

Three Fires in Garrett

District Forester William H. Johnson reported three fires yesterday in Garrett county but he said he had received no information as to the causes burned or the causes.

The fires, he said, were located near Vinces, Altamont and Deer Park. The Vinces fire broke out shortly before 9 a. m. and was extinguished by noon. The other two, Johnson said, were reported about 2 p. m. He added that he does not know if they have been extinguished.

Maj. H. L. Dotson Stresses Training For Pre-Inductees

Third Service Command Chief Addresses Teachers of County Schools

Maj. H. L. Dotson, chief of pre-induction training in the Third Service Command, addressed a group of forty principals, vice principals, heads of departments and teachers yesterday afternoon in Fort Hill high school on the value of this type of training.

In his talk, Maj. Dotson gave some valuable pointers to school officials concerning pre-induction courses. He was introduced by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county public schools.

Richard T. Rizer, county school supervisor, yesterday announced that adjustments are being made in the school curriculum to meet the needs of the military forces. Science and mathematics are being emphasized, he said.

May Take Courses

In the past two years seventy-seven boys and girls have studied pre-flight aeronautics, 659 boys have studied chemistry, 503 boys and girls have studied physics, 1,018 have taken courses in high mathematics and 1,141 in junior and senior classes have taken physical education.

Rizer stated that three schools in the county are offering aviation mathematics and all schools in the county have offered remedial work in arithmetic in high school grades.

Senior high schools have increased the number of hours devoted to physical education and a number of schools are devoting one period a day to relatively hard physical activities for those boys who expected to be inducted at the close of the school year. A number of boys becoming eighteen during the first semester have doubled up on work so they may accumulate a sufficient number of units of credit to meet requirements for a high school diploma at the end of the semester, Rizer said.

Various Aspects Given

Much stress is being laid throughout the Third Service Command on the adaptation of the high school program to the preliminary training for military service and the various aspects of the program were fully explained at yesterday's meeting by Maj. Dotson.

Informing Sgt. Baker of the award, Lt. Col. Jack B. Dunn, officer in charge of WAC training in the Third Service Command, complimented the local WAC recruiters for their "conscientious and unceasing work" and devotion to duty.

Sgt. Baker will wear the gold laurel wreath insignia denoting that the plaque has been awarded to the local station yesterday.

A new recruiter, Sgt. Mary Jane Guernsey, arrived here from Hagerstown yesterday. A native of Chicago, Ill., Sgt. Guernsey received her basic training in the WAC at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Sgt. Baker also announced yesterday that Lt. Frances D. Robinson, Lt. James B. Dowdy, and Lt. Edna M. Caslin, all attached to the Hagerstown recruiting station, will take part in the Armistice day parade here tomorrow evening with a WAC detachment from Hagerstown.

Cpl. Helen D. Ferguson and Cpl. Dorothy J. Hildebrand returned to the recruiting station yesterday. Cpl. Ferguson has been stationed in Oxford, Pa., on recruiting duty for the past thirty days, and Cpl. Hildebrand has been hospitalized at Fort George G. Meade for the past week.

Truck Is Pushed From B. & O. Track

A Grandview Construction Company truck, a portable machine shop, operated by Louis E. Krutz, 141 Amsterdam, N. Y., was pushed from track 1 at the Baltimore street crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad by a yard engine, hauling forty-five cars east and turned into the subway overhead at 2:10 p. m. yesterday.

No one was injured. The motor, door frame and siding of the truck, and the spouting and end of the truck were damaged. Traffic was delayed forty minutes until a truck from the airport, where the Grandview company is doing construction work, arrived to haul the damaged truck away.

Krutz said that he was driving the truck to the airport and had received the crossing watchman's signal to proceed west across the tracks. When his truck started across, he said, he received a second signal to stop and did so on track 1. At that time, he said, the first car struck his truck and pushed it off the tracks into the subway.

A B. & O. official reported to the superintendent's office that the crossing watchman, H. P. Kelly, had signalled the truck to come ahead and that the truck, which had four inches of gasoline in the tank, stalled on track one. The yard engine was signalled to stop but, the report said, was unable to do so in the time. The report also said that the truck bore no license and that Krutz carried a 1943 New Jersey license.
